Producers Note:

The reason I decided to produce this show was because of the story line. I love the way that there is just sudden plot twist, and there’s hints of romance, pain, and insanity that are mixed together just right to make this story jump out to you. While some parts seem unreal a lot of it feels like everyday life, and there is a way for everyone to connect with the characters while they go through this part of their life. I also believe that this play does a great job of show the insanity that sits within all of us. So I want every single one of the audience members walking away knowing that some part of them is insane and that its ok to be and feel insane sometimes.
